Reviews

Comprehensive guide! Its this type of very good read through. It is actually writter in simple words and phrases rather than difficult to understand. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

The ordinary trolley wire carries a current of about 500 volts, and incandescent and arc-light currents run from 2500 to 3000 volts. The passage of these powerful currents through the body causes dangerous shock or even death. HOW TO RESCUE PERSON FROM CONTACT WITH ELECTRIC CURRENT (When possible the rescuers should Stand on Dry Wood or Cloth) PLATE XXVI.---Rescue methods (electric). Prevention.--The third rail is always dangerous, so avoid it. Swinging wires of any kind may somewhere in their course be in contact with live wires, so they should not be touched. Electric wires must always be carefully avoided. Symptoms.--Are due to paralysis of the nerve center in the brain which governs breathing and in consequence are those of suffocation. Sudden loss of consciousness occurs when a powerful electric current passes through the body. The breathing may be entirely stopped or it may be shallow and only occasional. Weak pulse as the electric current affects the heart as well as the breathing apparatus. If hands are in contact with a live wire, may not be able to release them at first. Burns of hands or other parts of the body in contact. The direct current causes severe burns but is not so dangerous to life. The alternating while more dangerous to life does not cause as severe burns. Low-voltage currents, especially alternating currents, cause many deaths. Little difficulty should be experienced in making out cause of injury. Treatment.--First, rescue; second, treat....
